

DIY | dream catchers for kids

PETITEPARTYSTUDIO.COM

I am back this week with a super fun DIY project for the #DIYsummerIDEA series that we have been participating in on instagram. I was playing around with a few ideas and when my gal pal Jo made some with her kiddos...I knew my guys would LOVE this!! So that is what I did! I took a trip to Michaels to gather up some supplies for a fun day of crafting and got to work.

I did some sourcing on Pinterest for some kid friendly ideas and came across some fun takes on the traditional dream catcher. My kiddos wake up every now and then from a bad dream, we usually tell them to flip the pillow and it will erase that bad dream. We had also brought home some uber touristy dream catchers from a trip to Sedona and they just didn't fit into our design style!!! So it was time to make our own...here is what you'll need:

Embroidery hoops

Washi Tape

Yarn in various colors

Feathers

Felt Balls

Beads

or anything else you can think of to decorate your DIY Dream Catcher!!

HOME

ABOUT

PRESS

CONTACT

HOME

ABOUT

PRESS

CONTACT

I sew a felt heart for the sample dream catcher and thought it was such a cute addition.

HOME ABOUT PRESS CONTACT

poly-fill to give in some dimension.

another close up of the dangles...

HOMEABOUTPRESSCONTACT

Here it is hanging up on the wall...I love the way it turned out!!

