String art has such a wonderful dimension to it and creates a fun texture mixed in with other artwork. Traditionally, we've seen it created with wood and nails. Using some recycled materials and crafting supplies we had on hand, we created this simple craft.

- Cardstock and glue (optional)

Instructions:

We liked the bright pop of color against a white background so we glued white cardstock to the cardboard. This step is optional. If you prefer the natural cardboard as background skip this step.

Step 1: Use hole punch to create holes along edges of sturdy cardboard.

To hang on the wall, attach a string to brads on each end of the artwork. My kids adored making this colorful (very low mess) craft!
